This document serves as an operational mapping tool of protection monitoring activities in Borno and Yobe states, as of June 2018.* It provides a comprehensive overview of the protection monitoring sites operated by UNHCR and its 5 partners—local NGO partners AIPD, CCEPI, GISCOR, SAHEI and governmental partner, the National Human Rights Commission (NHRC). This mapping is meant to facilitate information-sharing on service provider focal points and strengthen protection activities, including the real-time referral and follow up of cases. UNHCR will update the mapping tool at regular intervals to reflect updated service provider information.

Protection monitoring in the above-mentioned locations is conducted in collaboration with Protection Action Groups (PAGs), which are comprised of local community members. UNHCR's focus on the formation and capacity-building of PAGs recognizes the fact that affected communities have capabilities, skills and resilience that can be mobilized to find sustainable solutions. UNHCR's strategy supports community-based leadership to promote sustainable self-protection mechanisms. Through PAGs, community members are encouraged to play a substantive role in identifying and addressing protection issues that are affecting them. When faced with issues that require additional support, PAGs coordinate with UNHCR protection monitors to refer cases. In an effort to ensure equal representation and the respect of everyone's rights, PAG members embody diversity in terms of age, gender and background.
