

REGIONAL PROTECTION SECTOR. OBJECTIVES, INDICATORS, DESCRIPTORS. 2021

Indicator Code	Sector/Subsector/ WG	Sector Objective	Indicator Title	Indicator description /rationale
RE-PR1	Protection (General)	Provide critical protection-related assistance and specialized services, including case management and referral pathways, through an integrated approach (gender, PSEA, environment) to address the priority needs of targeted vulnerable gender, age, diversity and minority groups (e.g. Indigenous, afrodescendants) as well special groups with specific needs.	# of refugees and migrants who received protection-related assistance and specialized services	This indicator aims to measure the extent to which refugees and migrants from Venezuela have access to protection-related assistance and specialized services with an age, gender and diversity approach. The indicator encompasses legal assistance and counselling linked to documentation processes, including civil documentation, RSD procedures, including legal remedies, birth registration, as well as legal representation, access to rights (e.g. education, health, housing, justice, land, prevention of evictions) and basic services, and access to national prevention and protection mechanisms. Additionally, the indicator also includes all services provided in existing Support Spaces, related to mental health and psychosocial support, referrals, restore and maintain contact between family members (RFL). The indicator applies through remote channels (e.g. Helplines, call centers, social media) and presential channels.
RE-PR2	Protection (General)	Strengthen the protection environment through support to relevant actors at the local, national and regional levels and improve access to national protection systems integrating gender, age and diversity dimensions.	# of capacity building activities conducted to strengthen the protection environment and integrating gender, age and diversity dimensions as well considerations for ethnic groups	This indicator encompasses all trainings, webinars, technical sessions with the participation of local, national and regional authorities (e.g. law enforcement officials, military personnel, migration officials, RSD officials, judges, public defenders, ombudspersons, civil registrars), counterparts, civil society organizations, ethnic minorities organizations and members of the Sector. It also covers all initiatives related to support and contribute to building asylum capacities as well as for the identification of international protection needs, coordination and referral mechanisms to asylum and migration authorities, etc.
RE-PR3	Protection (General)	Strengthen the protection environment through support to relevant actors at the local, national and regional levels and improve access to national protection systems integrating gender, age and diversity dimensions.	# of initiatives implemented for community strengthening.	This indicator aims to highlight all activities with communities (e.g. focus group discussions, participatory assessments, support groups, community outreach, trainings and raising awareness initiatives), including host communities, leaderships, community based-organizations, indigenous organizations, as well as activities that promotes peaceful coexistence, social cohesion and empowerment under an inter-sectoral perspective. This indicator also seeks to understand the effects of community interventions that benefit both refugees and migrants and host communities.

RE-PR4	Protection (General)	Ensure that access to the territory, asylum procedures, legal stay arrangements and access to birth registration and nationality documentation are consistent with international standards and with the perspective of durable solutions and age, gender and diversity approach.	# of advocacy interventions and or projects carried out to guarantee access to the territory, asylum procedures, legal stay arrangements, birth registration and civil/nationality documentation	This indicator includes documents drafting, observations and recommendations on law and policy initiatives, meetings, discussions, direct or indirect communication, written correspondence, public statements, research and reports, initiatives and projects aimed at securing access to rights (e.g. not to be rejected at border, no devolution, the right to seek and be granted asylum). It could also encompass access to legal aid and representation on matters related to RSD but also other legal/protection interventions (e.g. prevention of refoulement) and strategic litigation. It also includes all public information materials, communication pieces, campaigns, applications and technological developments to provide key information to refugees and migrants. Furthermore this indicator seeks to analyze compliance by host governments with obligations relating to the principle of non-refoulement and the related right of access to territory, legal stay arrangements, birth registration and RSD procedures.
--------	-------------------------	--	--	--