UKRAINIANS ARE GENERALLY INTERESTED TO APPLY FOR TEMPORARY PROTECTION

Most respondents (78%) have applied or expressed interest in applying for Temporary Protection (TP) in Moldova. Very few respondents have reported lacking interest in applying to TP (6%) or not planning to stay in the country (3%).

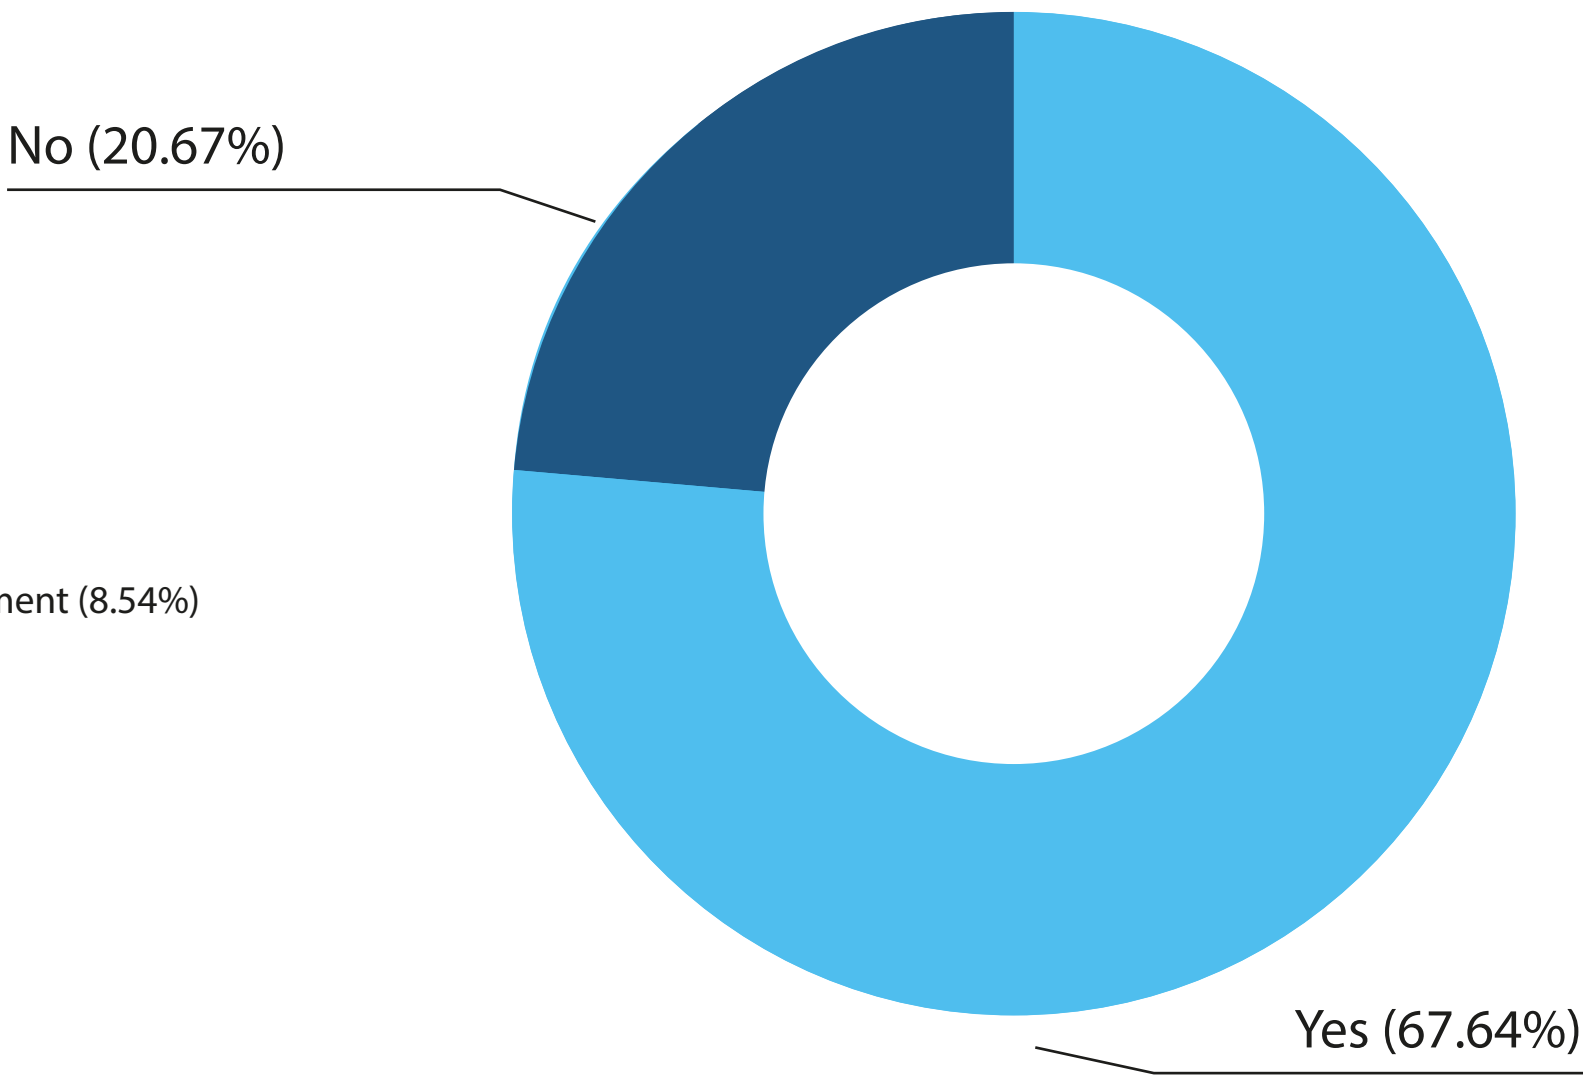

If yes, what is the status of your application?

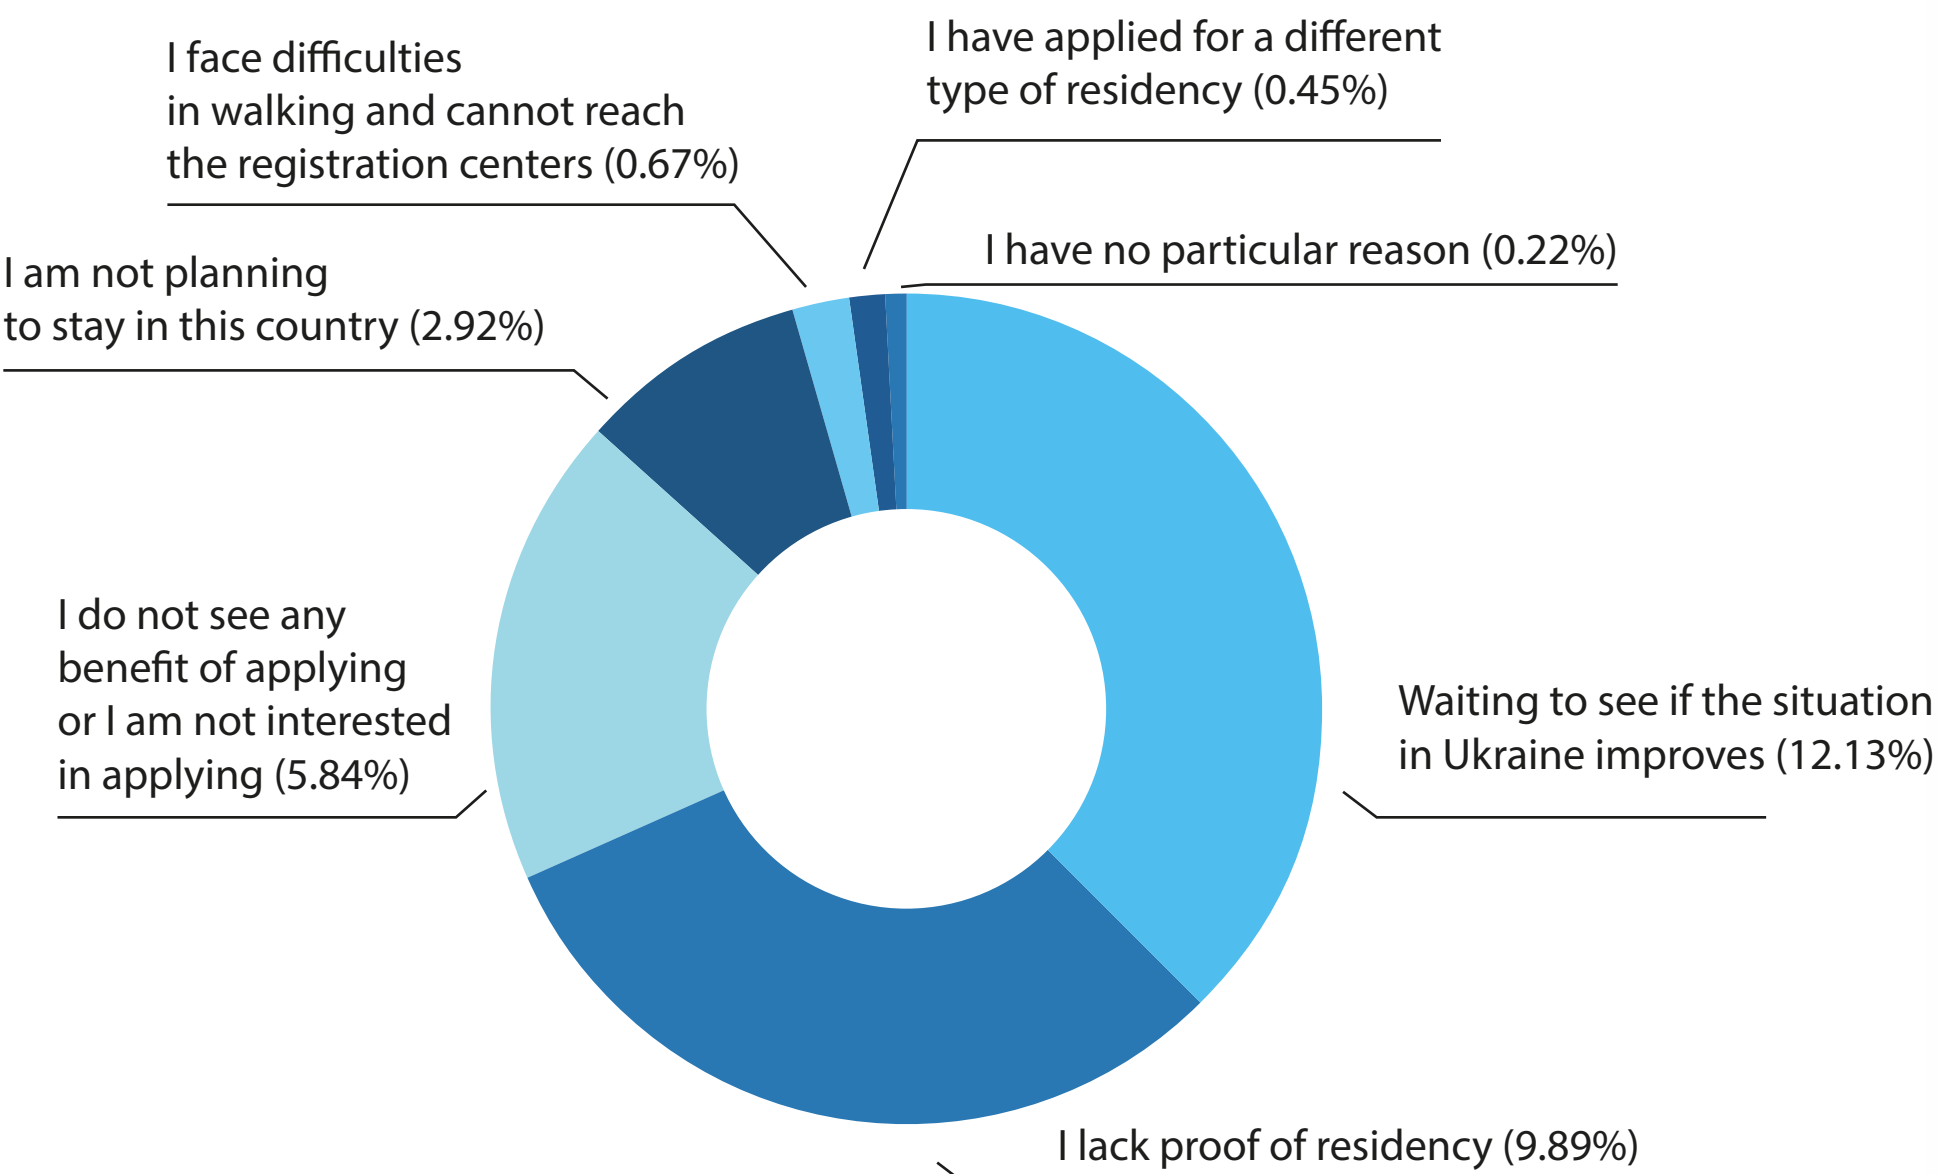

Did you apply for Temporary Protection?

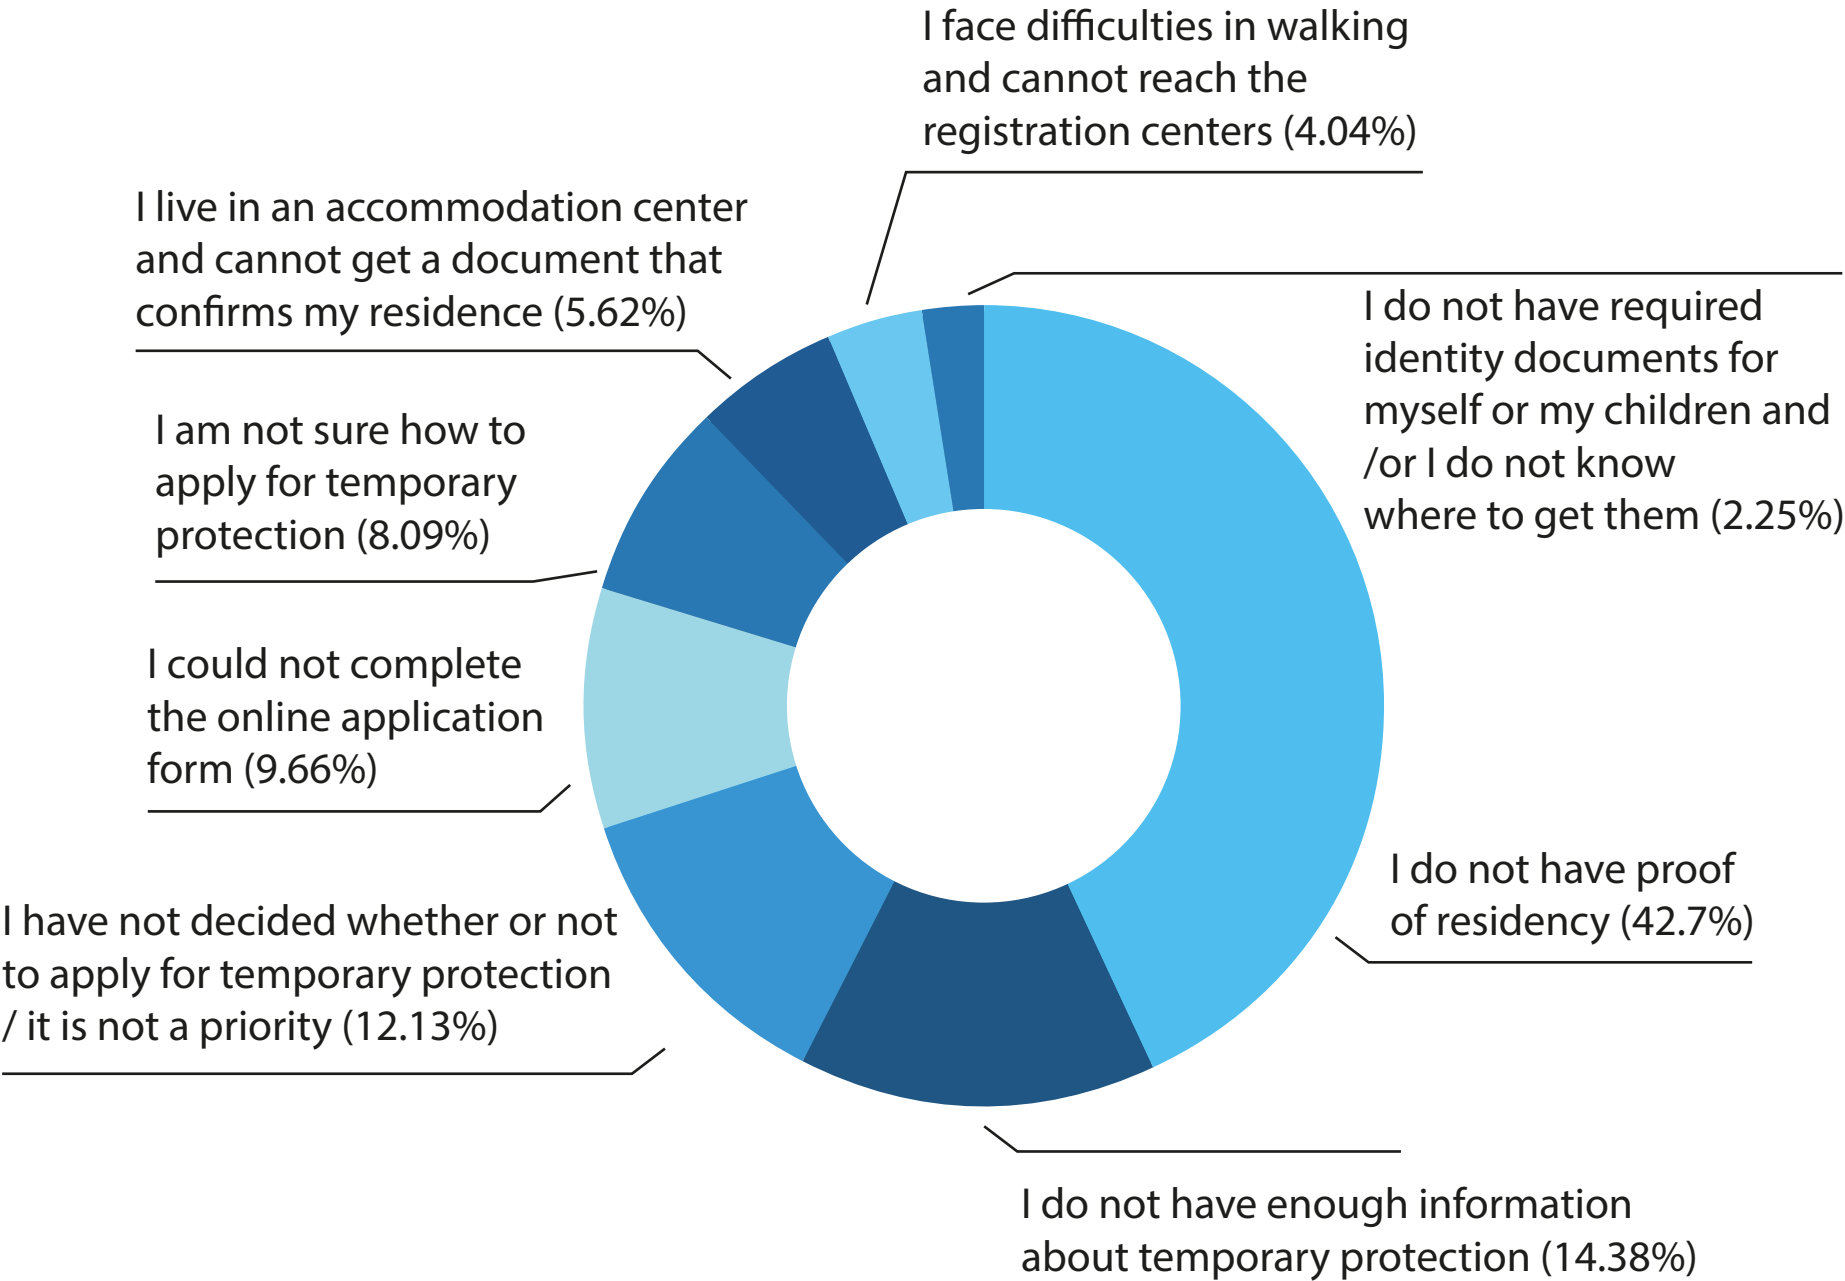

If no, are you planning to apply?

If you are not planning to apply, could you please indicate reasons?

If you are planning to apply, why have you not applied for temporary protection yet?

PRACTICAL BARRIERS DELAY OR DEMOTIVATE INDIVIDUALS FROM APPLYING:

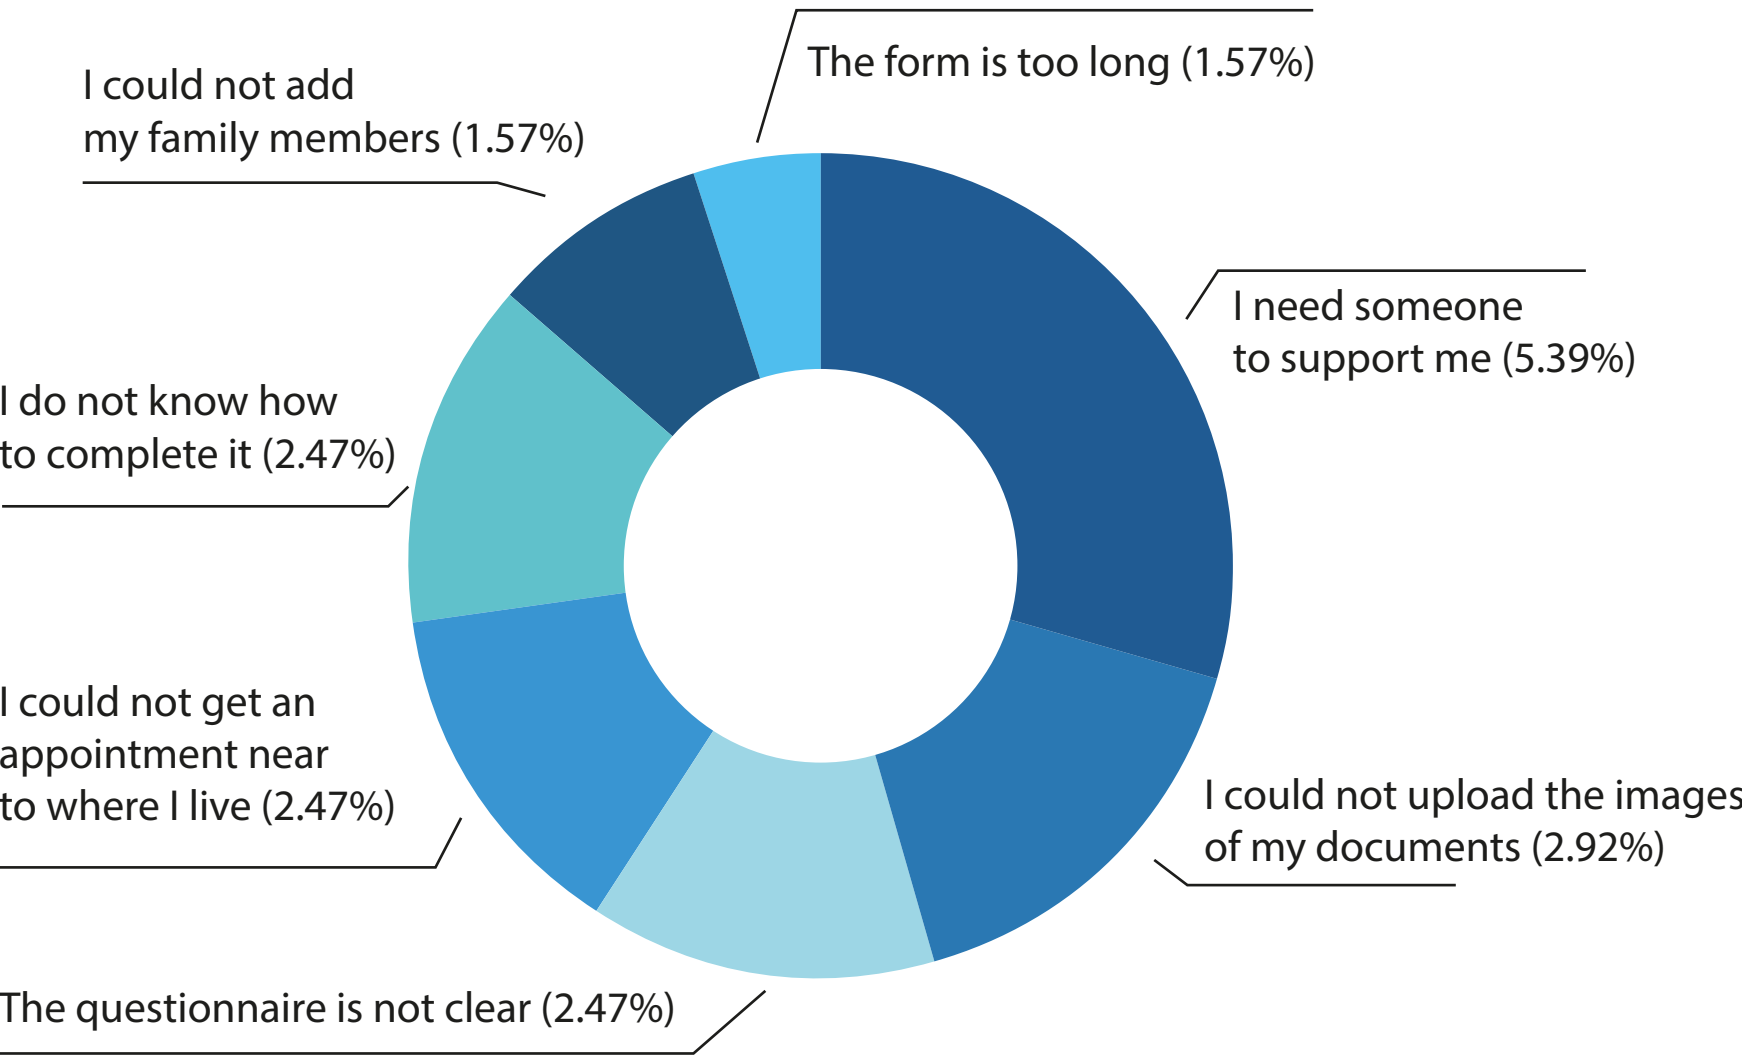

47% of those not planning to apply to cite difficulties obtaining proof of residency for themselves or their children as one of the major reasons for not applying. For those who have not yet applied but plan to (67%), the main issue hindering their application is difficulties obtaining proof of residency (63%), followed by lack of information about TP (22%), deprioritizing the application and/or indecision about applying (19%), and difficulties completing the online form (14%), with several issues overlapping.
