Forty-two-year-old Ahlam al Sarahi, an Iraqi refugee living in Athens, seen on the balcony of the apartment she shares with her five children. Ahlam's younger children attend school during the morning while their older brother is trying to find work in order to help their mother with the expenses of the household.

The family fled Iraq and reached Greece two years ago. They now live in the center of Athens in a rented apartment provided by NGO ARSIS and UNHCR as part of the EU – funded ESTIA program.

Overview

By the end of February 2019, UNHCR had created 26,186 places in the accommodation scheme as part of the ESTIA programme. These were in 4,457 apartments and 19 buildings, in 14 cities and 6 islands across Greece.

The Accommodation Scheme<sup>1</sup> provides rented housing to vulnerable asylum-seekers and refugees in Greece. Urban accommodation helps restore a sense of normalcy and provides better access to services, including education and health. People are additionally supported by social workers and interpreters who help them access medical services, employment, language courses and recreational activities.
