As school closures due to COVID-19 impact the majority of learners, education systems deployed remote learning solutions. Motivation is central to learning and here are tips for teachers on what they can do to motivate learners in such times:

1. Set Clear Goals with the Participation of Learners
   - Ensure that tasks are based on relatable and realistic scenarios
   - Set objectives compatible with the learners' own goals

2. Define the Purpose of Each Lesson
   - Set Clear Goals with the Participation of Learners
   - Define the purpose of each lesson and connect it with the learners' long-term learning goals

3. Invite, Challenge and Respond!
   - Invite, Challenge and Respond!
   - Avoid judgements and provide constructive comments and feedback
   - Encourage learners to share their own stories/experiences

4. Encourage Participation, Collaboration and Creativity!
   - Encourage learners to engage and actively participate
   - Provide learners with tools to reduce dependence on the teacher

5. Customize Learning
   - Customize Learning
   - Provide learners with remeologies/online platforms that can provide individualized learning experiences

Tips for Teachers

Motivating Learners During Remote Learning Due to COVID-19