Social Cohesion and Harmonization

In October, UNHCR and the Presidency for Migration Management (PMM), formerly DGMM, held four neighbourhood gatherings with mukhtars as part of their Joint Harmonization Initiative. The workshops were held in Istanbul and covered the districts of Ümraniye, Üsküdar and Kadıköy, Fatih and Arnavutköy. They included consultation sessions with mukhtars and discussions on social cohesion activities, trends and recommendations, and the importance of strengthening coordination between mukhtars and public institutions in ensuring social cohesion. The sessions helped to create an understanding of the work of mukhtars with foreigners, their rights and the importance of their inclusion in various services. Mukhtars were able to share their observations, challenges and recommendations for better involvement.

The Presidency of Migration Management and UNHCR also held the first Harmony in Economy event in Kayseri on 19-20 October. UNHCR's Assistant Representative for Operations and the Head of the Ankara Field Office represented UNHCR on the first day of the event. The event, which is one in a series of Harmony in Economy events taking place across the country from October to December, aims to bring state institutions and the private sector together to discuss challenges and opportunities for the economic inclusion of foreigners under international and temporary protection. On the second day of the event, participants visited firms and workplaces which present positive examples of cohesion in the economy, and experiences were shared.

Engaging at the Local Level

As part of UNHCR’s support to the Friedrich Naumann Foundation’s training on the human rights of vulnerable groups. UNHCR facilitated sessions on 6 and 9 October focusing on children's rights and refugee children's protection. The sessions touched upon the national and international legal frameworks, international standards of protection and UNHCR guidelines in relation to child rights and best interests procedures. Around 25 young career professionals and university students participated in the training.

Izmir Metropolitan Municipality, through the support of UNHCR and the Foundation for the Support of Women’s Work (KEDV), held a face-to-face focus-group discussion with 11 Syrian women on 14 October. The discussion was held to better understand the level of information available among the refugee community regarding existing municipal services in Izmir, the level of access to services, and challenges refugees might encounter. Participants were also informed of the multi-lingual services provided by the Citizenship Communication Centre (HIM) available at the municipality as well as the City Guide and Refugee Desk activities. Feedback from the participants and beneficiaries of municipal services will be used to improve service provision.

UNHCR conducted trainings for municipal staff on strengthening refugee inclusion in municipal services in the southeast region of Turkey in October, in cooperation with partners Yereliz and ASAM. In total, 12 modules in 20 sessions were delivered to around 100 municipality staff. The modules covered, among other topics, project management and funds, developing relations with NGOs, rights-based service provision, social inclusion and refugee participation, protection of women and children, prejudice awareness, social cohesion and impact-oriented thinking.

UNHCR supported a training on digital inclusion covering basic computer skills, remote work skills, the use of the internet and productivity at the workplace. The training, held through weekly sessions, targeted Syrian and Afghan committee members and was facilitated by Kudra Organization with the support of partner ASAM. UNHCR observed that participants were highly motivated and actively participated in the training. The last round of sessions was concluded on 29 October. In total 13 sessions on digital skills were delivered to 60 refugee committee members in the southeast region. UNHCR is discussing relevant follow-up actions with partners and participants.

UNHCR delivered a series of trainings in October on developing intervention skills for social problems through mediation and conflict resolution, training participants on how to become mediators. Online trainings, held in cooperation with partners, community-based organisations and municipalities, were facilitated on various topics encompassing the theoretical framework of conflict, mediation and resolution mechanisms for refugee and host communities in Adana, Hatay, Gaziantep, Kilis, Adiyaman and Mardin, as well as in Sanliurfa where most of the participants were female. Participants were actively engaged and shared their experiences, ideas and needs. In Gaziantep and Kilis, refugees requested more community centres where refugees could meet, receive trainings and access services; in Adiyaman and Mardin, participants highlighted social cohesion issues and the need for action at the local level to address them. UNHCR is developing an action plan to follow up on the outcomes of the trainings.
Inter-agency Consultations

The Regional Refugee and Resilience Plan for the Syria Situation (3RP) High-Level National Consultation meeting on the mid-term review of the 3RP (2021-2022) is planned to be held at the end of November. In the meantime, in preparation for the meeting, UNHCR field offices held consultations with partners and officials across the country. One of these was held in Ankara on 20 October over two sessions: one with 18 participants of state institutions and municipalities, and the second with 19 participants from NGOs. The meetings focused on the 3RP priorities for 2022 while delving into registration challenges for international protection applicants, social harmonization activities, and outreach activities in the context of the pandemic. The findings of the sessions will feed into the larger National Consultation meeting in November which aims to take stock of the progress achieved so far and to validate planning and implementation priorities for 2022. Further consultations will be carried out in November.

Another 3RP planning meeting facilitated by UNHCR was the inter-sector consultation meeting held in Izmir on 12 October covering the Aegean region. Some 45 participants from 26 institutions and organizations including public institutions, municipalities, universities, NGOs and UN Agencies took part. Participants highlighted challenges in access to registration, and to existing services including assistance, and focused on the impact of the pandemic in the provision of services, on livelihoods and social cohesion; and emphasized the need for increased cooperation with public institutions and advocacy efforts in livelihoods, education and protection. Participants also discussed barriers to the formal employment of refugees, challenges in obtaining work permits, both for refugees and employers; and the need for increased communication, awareness-raising and information-dissemination targeting both refugee and local community members.
