DETENTION IN POLISH LAW

Basis:

1. In return procedure- Act on Foreigners (Ustawa o cudzoziemcach z dnia 12 grudnia 2013 r.)

2. In international protection procedure- Act on granting protection to foreigners within the territory of the Republic of Poland (Ustawa o udzielaniu ochrony cudzoziemcom na terytorium RP z dnia 13 czerwca 2003 r.)
DETENTION IN POLISH LAW

Art. 87 of the Act on granting protection to foreigners within the territory of the Republic of Poland is a transposition of the art. 8 of Directive 2013/33/UE of 26 June 2013 laying down standards for the reception of applicants for international protection.

Applicant can be placed in detention:

(a) to determine or verify person 's identity or nationality;

(b) to determine those elements on which the application for international protection is based which could not be obtained in the absence of detention, in particular when there is a significant risk of absconding of the applicant;

(c) to secure issuance or execution of the return decision when this procedure is pending or the decision has been issued, and there is a justified presumption that the application was launched with the sole purpose of delaying the issuance or preventing the execution of the decision;
(e) when protection of national security or public order so requires;

(f) in accordance with Article 28 of Regulation (EU) No 604/2013 (Dublin III) when there is a significant risk of absconding and immediate transfer is not possible.

Applicant can be released from detention based on decision of The Office for Foreigners when there is high possibility of granting international protection.
DETENTION IN POLISH LAW

Art. 398a of The Act on Foreigners is a transposition of the art. 15 DIRECTIVE 2008/115/EC of 16 December 2008 on common standards and procedures in Member States for returning illegally staying third country nationals.

A foreigner can be placed in detention:

(a) If there is a probability of issuance the deportation decision without a period of voluntary return because it is required for reasons of state defence or security or the protection of public safety and order, or this kind of decision has be issued already, and;

(b) there is a need to secure the transfer of a foreigner to a third country on the basis of an international agreement on the transfer and admission of persons, and its immediate transfer to that country is not possible;
DETENTION IN THE POLISH LAW

Or if the circumstances described in art. 398 of The Act on Foreigners occurs and the alternative measures described there are not sufficient/cannot be applied. These circumstances are:

(a) When it is probable that a decision obliging the foreigner to return will be issued without a period of voluntary return because of risk of absconding or this kind of decision has been issued;

(b) Person concerned did not leave the country within a period of the voluntary return and the immediate deportation is not possible;

(c) There is a need to secure the transfer of a foreigner in accordance with Article 28 of Regulation (EU) No 604/2013 (Dublin III Regulation) when there is a significant risk of absconding and immediate transfer is not possible

(d) There is a need to secure the transfer to another Member State of the European Union, a member state of the European Free Trade Association (EFTA) - parties to the agreement on the European Economic Area or the Swiss Confederation on the basis of an international agreement on the transfer and reception of persons, and immediate transfer to that country is not possible.
