

Gender Based Violence Response

Cabo Delgado, Northern Mozambique

Gender Based Violence (GBV) is an alarming concern in Cabo Delgado. Women and girls are at risk of multiple forms of GBV before, during and after displacement.

UNHCR works with displaced and host communities, partners, and local authorities to respond to and prevent GBV in Northern Mozambique.

UNHCR and partners are conducting early marriage prevention campaigns in the districts of Chiure and Montepuez for displaced and host communities

The 16 days of Activism to end GBV campaign in Cabo Delgado started on 25 November.

UNHCR organized diverse activities with the government, partners, humanitarian Clusters, and members of displaced and host communities to raise awareness on GBV prevention and response, including theater plays on early marriage, training on GBV mainstreaming for humanitarian organizations, and a walk to different available GBV services. Activities reached 750 women, girls, men, and boys.

“More than ever, it’s urgent to end violence against women across the world and in particular in Cabo Delgado.” said a participant of the walk in Pemba that included visits to GBV service providers such as police, hospital and social assistance, aiming at raising awareness to end violence against women and enhance services available for GBV survivors.

Overview

GBV is a major protection concern amid Cabo Delgado’s humanitarian crisis. Displaced women and girls are at risk of multiple forms of gender-based violence including sexual violence, abduction, intimate partner violence, and spiralling rates of early marriage.

IDP sites and host community locations lack basic safety and assistance, leaving women and girls, many of whom have experienced conflict related GBV, exposed to ongoing risks of GBV. Sexual violence whilst collecting water and firewood, sexual and physical assault in homes due to inadequate shelter, and fear of sexual violence due to lack of lighting at night are some of the GBV risks identified by UNHCR through GBV Safety Audits among IDPs and the host community.

Adolescent girls are at heightened risk of GBV and have been identified as the most vulnerable group. Risks of GBV towards girls are escalating, including harmful traditional practises such as early marriage, sexual abuse and exploitation of girls, abduction, and high rates of early pregnancy. In spite of this, girls feel they are not sufficiently included in humanitarian programmes, unrepresented in decision making, and lack access to services, activities and safe spaces adapted to their specific protection needs.

Sexual exploitation is a major risk, particularly in urban areas due to lack of assistance. Highly vulnerable groups such as single women head of households, women and girls with disabilities, adolescent girls and sex workers are at particular risk. Women and girls are often sexually exploited as they cannot fulfil their basic needs such as food and hygiene items. Women and girls have been kidnapped and sexually assaulted by Non-State Armed Groups and are exposed to GBV during their abduction. Following their release or escape, they are perceived as part of the NSAGs and face discrimination within the community. Survivors of GBV perpetrated by armed groups are at ongoing risk and require immediate protection, mental health and psycho-social support (MHPSS), health and reintegration assistance.

UNHCR’s GBV Strategy

UNHCR’s GBV strategy for Cabo Delgado aims at reducing the risk of GBV for displaced and host communities, and that all survivors have adequate and timely access to quality services. It includes:

1. Working with agencies providing support services, displaced persons, host communities, and local authorities to respond to GBV through improving access to quality and holistic GBV services for survivors, which includes the provision of case management, including integrated mental health and psycho-social support (MHPSS) through GBV mobile services run by UNHCR and partner Doctors with Africa CUAMM to ensure access by survivors in vulnerable communities.
2. Implementing toolkits, curriculum, and communication materials that help prevent GBV through addressing gender inequality, discrimination and unequal power relations with men, women, boys and girls. The activities include awareness-raising led by community volunteers including targeted messages for adolescent girls, men and boys’ survivors of violence, and is scaling-up to structured life-skills programmes with girls and women’s economic empowerment programing for a joint GBV-Livelihood’s approach.

UNHCR and partners work together with Protection Focal Points, activists, and members of displaced and host communities to raise awareness on prevention & response GBV/Sexual Exploitation and Abuse, and to support GBV survivors and refer them to services.

- 3. Identifying GBV risks across all sectors and areas of work and develop capacities that ensure prompt action is taken to mitigate these risks. This includes conducting Safety Audits to identify GBV risks, and mitigate them through community-based and sector level responses. UNHCR is also providing training to mainstream GBV across different humanitarian sectors.
- 4. Conducting GBV assessments and protection monitoring to ensure that GBV gaps and risks, including sexual exploitation and abuse, are identified, and progress is tracked to inform advocacy and programming. This includes a comprehensive assessment on response needs and gaps conducted in partnership with the London School of Hygiene and Tropical Medicine.
- 5. Building the capacity of government and NGO stakeholders to ensure they have the knowledge and skills needed to promote gender equality and to prevent, mitigate, and respond to GBV. Capacity-building focuses on a GBV case management coaching program, and a learning package focusing on enhancing UNHCR, partners and government community volunteers and leader's capacity to conduct GBV community engagement and support survivor disclosure.

Gaps and Challenges

- Despite the overwhelming GBV needs identified, due to limited funding for GBV activities, essential services lack capacity to respond to the emergency needs of GBV survivors. UNHCR is leading on the provision of GBV case management in safe spaces in locations with high and vulnerable IDP populations as an entry point for the provision of broader health, legal, safety and psychosocial support services, however funding is urgently required so that more survivors can access crucial services.
- To complement existing community awareness, more technical structured approaches to GBV prevention are required, especially funding for those that target adolescent girls' life-skills, engagement of men and boys to address harmful gender norms, and women's economic empowerment.
- There is limited technical capacity on the ground impacting both the quality and capacity of GBV response programs as well as the GBV mainstreaming across the humanitarian response. UNHCR is providing GBV mainstreaming capacity building and technical support across humanitarian programmes to address GBV risks, urgent funding is required to scale up this vital support.
- Longer term capacity-building and support for GBV services, in particular government social services, is required to provide access to quality services for survivors more sustainably. UNHCR needs additional resources to provide GBV capacity building support to provide more regular support to more actors in the response.
